Brigade Orders.
THE enrolled Militia of the county of Allegheny shall hereafter be divided into regiments and battalions, to wit.

The 1st Battalion of the 28th Regiment shall remain as hetetofore except the Southern boundary, which shall be known by the point where the north branch of Chartiers creek flows from the county line, thence down said creek to its junction with the Ohio river.

The 2d Battalion of the 28th Regiment, shall be bounded on the north by the waters of Chartiers creek as above named, thence by the county line to where the northern waters of Peters' creek pass from the said line, thence down the waters of Peters' creek to the Monongahela river, thence down said river to the mouth of Chartiers creek the place of beginning.

That part of the township of Mifflin being south of Peters creek' as above described, annexed to the township of Elizabeth, shall form one Battalion, and that part of the 62d regiment lying south of the Allegheny river and extending to the Youghiogany river shall form another Battalion—which two battalions shall form one Regiment.

That part of the 87th regiment, commencing at the mouth of Liberty street on the Monongahela river to the beginning of sixth street, thence along sixth street to Grant street, thence along Grant to Washington street, thence along Washington to the Turnpike road, thence along said road to the two mile run, thence down the two mile run to the Allegheny, shall form one batalion.—The district north of the Allegheny river shall form one other battalion—which two battalions shall form one Regiment.

The city of Pittsburgh as heretofore organized (except so much as has been detached therefrom) shall compose one regiment—which shall be divided into two battalions by the middle of Wood street beginning at the Monongahela river, thence along Wood street to its junction with Liberty street.

By order of the Brigadier General,
WM. JOHNSON,
Brigade Inspector.

April 3, 1818.

 In pursuance of the above regulations, an ELECTION will be held on Monday the twentieth day of April at the house of Robert Campbell, inn keeper in the town of Allegheny, between the hours of 10 in the morning and 6 in the afternoon, to elect one person to serve in the office of Colonel, and one person to serve in the office of Lieutenant Colonel, to command said Regiment.

Also an election will be held on Tuesday the 21st of April, at the house of William Gillespie between the hours of 10 o'clock, A. M. and 6 o'clock P. M. to elect one person for Major for said battalion.

Also an election will be held at the house of Joseph Neel in M'Keesport, on Wednesday the 22d day of April, between the hours of 10 oclock A. M. and 6 o'clock P. M to elect one person as Major for said Batallion.

MAYSVILLE,
(Kentucky.)
THE enterprize and industry of the inhabitants of this town having placed it in a remarkable flourishing situation, and the subscribers being proprietors of land contiguous to it, have thought it advisable to add to its present confined limits.—They have laid off into convenient streets and allies, a sufficient quantity of land, situate in the bottom immediately above the said town, with a handsome situation for its extension. The advantages attending Maysville, more generally known by the name of Limestone, must be obvious to every man acquainted with the western country.

It stands immediately on the bank of the Ohio, and is surrounded by a fine, healthy, and fertile country on both sides of the river, and has been the deposit of the Merchandize imported from the Atlantic country for thirty years past.

The main leading road from Philadelphia, Baltimore, and the Eastern Country generally, towards New-Orleans, both by land and water passes this place, and necessarily renders it interesting. The Turnpike Road from the West makes it a point, and if a rich country, and permanent establishments, can give a town importance, this place must flourish. The subscribers offer their Lots on liberal terms, and will secure the purchasers many privileges and advantages, not common to towns. They invite the attention of the Mechanic, the Manufacturer, and Merchant of the West, under a full belief, that the advantages of all parties will be substantially promoted. The raw materials are abundant, capital and industry, with the first gifts of nature, must at this place ensure profit to correct enterprize.

A public sale of Lots will be made on the second Wednesday in April next, on a credit of 9, 18, and 27 months; a payment of five per cent on the value of each Lot will be required at the time of purchase, as a part of the price thereof; and an indisputable title made to the purchasers at the last payment.

In the mean time any persons wishing to purchase may be accommodated, on application to the subscribers.

SAMUEL JANUARY.
JOHN COBURN.

JOHN I. SCULL. N. 71

Friday April 10, 1818

In the Debate respecting an appropriation for the Commissioners to South America.

Mr. HOPKINSON observed that he did not rise to express any opinion upon the object or utility of the mission in question: he was willing to agree in both; but he desired to express distinctly his dissent to the appropriation, because he believed the appointment of these Commissioners was of a kind, under the provision and spirit of our constitution, to require the approbation and assent of the Senate, and because he had no reason to believe such assent had ever been given by the Senate or asked by the Executive. He thought it more important for us, as the representatives of the American people, to attend to and guard our own constitution, than to send abroad to enquire into the form of government of other people. Mr. H. said that, being up, he would take occasion to say that he saw little or no difference between sending a Minister without consulting the Senate, in a case when their assent is admitted to be necessary, and sending him just on the eve of the meeting of that body, without any known urgency, and afterwards submitting the appointment to the Senate. No-body can believe the Senate can exercise that free and unembarrassed judgment upon the nomination which the constitution intended they should have, after the minister had actually embarked and sailed for his destination, with his outfit and other expenses of the mission.

IMPORTANT CANAL.

The Legislature of Maryland has incorporated a Company for cutting a canal from Curtia's Creek to the Severn, and thence to the Potomac, thus connecting by inland navigation Baltimore and Washington. Subscriptions for stock to the amount of $300,000 are to be opened on the 1st of May. Thus instead of a circuitous and difficult route, of near 200 miles, these two cities will be connected by an inland navigation, of not more than fifty, through a fertile, wealthy and populous country.

We look forward to the time when this line of canals will be extended from the Roanoke to the Susquehannah, thus connecting the southern waters of Virginia with the most western parts of Pennsylvania! [Fed Repub.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Pension Office, March 26, 1818.

Rules and regulations for substantiating claims to pensions, to be observed under the law of Congress of the 18th of March, 1818, viz:

The commissions of officers, and the discharges of the regular soldiers of the army of the Revolution, (if in existence) applying for pensions under the above act, will, in every instance, be furnished to the War Department; and the signatures of the respective Judges, certifying in these cases, must be attested by the seal of the Courts where such Judges preside. The person applying for pension to declare, under oath, before the Judge, that, from his reduced circumstances, he needs the assistance of his country for support.

LONDON, Jan. 30, 1818.

The son of the Ex-Empress MARIA-LOUISA, by NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE, will take the title of Highness, and the name of DUKE OF MODLIN. As the grandson of the Emperor of Austria he will hold the first rank after the Princes of the Imperial family.

The Military Contingent of the Germanic Confederation is to be 96,000 infantry, 18,000 cavalry, and 6000 artillery. In war the cavalry to be doubled, the artillery to be tripled. The experience of the late wars has demonstrated, that the artillery is the right arm of war; and all nations are taking measures for its encouragement and improvement.

The drill of the Horse Artillery is thus described, and in the battle of Waterloo was practiced with great success:—"The Horse Artillery learn to dismount their guns, take off a wheel, or all the wheels, and leave and scatter them about, so as to render them useless to an enemy, the men retiring each with an allotted portable article, essential to their utility. On a given signal by bugle, each man instantly rushes to his assigned post and part, and the gun is remounted and fired, in less time than it has required to write, or perhaps to read this note. On some occasions, in anticipation of an abandonment of position, the gun itself is moved off by the men without the carriage, the latter being supposed to be disabled; or, supposing a wheel to be disabled, or any other part of the gun, such part is replaced at the drill, from the spare stores in reserve, with a rapidity and facility not easily imagined by those who have not witnessed it. Thus all the contingent casualties of actual service, are anticipated at drill, and when they really occur, scarcely interrupt the executive operation of the gun."

Charles James Fox. A monument erected to the memory of Mr. Fox in Westminister Abbey, consists of two beautiful female figures lamenting over the departed Statesman, and a negro man sitting on the steps of the pedestal with his eyes raised in gratitude to him for the distinguished part he took in the abolition of the disgraceful slave trade.

From the London Globe, of Jan. 30.

An important circumstance has come to our knowledge, which at any preceding time of our history, would have excited universal indignation, if national right and the dignity of the crown were not instantly and peremptorily asserted. We learn that the United States have actually dispatched a frigate round into the Pacific Ocean to take possession of the river Columbia, a British station, where there is a small colony of settlers, with a fort upon which the British flag flies. It was originally taken possession of by Vancouver in his majesty's name; and that the British American subjects have long occupied posts on the heads of the Columbia, and the rivers flowing from the rocky mountains to the Pacific, is well known; and that they had, previously to the discoveries of Messrs. Lewis & Clarke (particularly by the expedition of Sir Alexander M'Kenzie) explored the whole country, but they had made no establishment on the coast till 1813. In that year, previous to the arrival of the Racoon, their traders from the interior made an arrangement with some citizens of the United States, who had established themselves at the mouth of the Columbia, by which they purchased their goods and post, and were found in possession by Capt. Black, of the Racoon, who again declared his Majesty's title to the settlement by the right of original discovery, and on this repeated the solemnities before made use of by Vancouver, and the other British navigators who had visited the spot. This is, in fact, a revival of the Nootka Sound question, the claim made by the United States, arising solely from the purchase of Louisianna from Spain, and which, by their construction, would put an end to our projected expedition to the North Pole, since, if discovered, they would claim possession of the whole of it! What must be the mortified feelings of his Royal Highness, the Prince Regent, on reflecting that the system which he has countenanced, as pursued by the followers of the immortal Mr. Pitt, has brought us to a condition to wink at such indignities.

Miscellany.

EXTRACT FROM PAULDING'S LETTERS.

The Batteauxman and Waggoner.

Yesterday we laid by at the little town of W——. It was court time, and two lawyers, the pick of the whole country round, were to take the field against each other, in a suit between a waggoner and a batteauxman, in a case of assault and battery. You are to understand the beautiful river Shenandoah passes not far from this town, and is navigable for batteaux; while at no great distance runs the great western road, which is travelled by the west country waggoners —some of whom, you know, are "half horse, half alligator; others "part earthquake, and a little of the steam-boat;" and others compounded, according to their own accounts, of ingredients altogether different from the common constituent parts of the rest of mankind. The batteauxmen are for the most part composed of materials equally combustible; and the consequence is, that occasionally, when they meet, they strike fire, and blow up the powder magazine each carries about him in the form of a heart.

The history of the present contest, as detailed by the counsel for the plaintiff, is as follows: One summer evening when the mild air, the purple light, the green earth, and the blue sky, all seemed to invite to peace and repose, the batteauxman fastened his boat to the stump of a tree, lighted his fire to broil his bacon, and began to sing that famous song of "The opossum up the gum-tree." By and by a west country waggoner chanced to come jingling his bells that way, and stopping his waggon, unhooked his horses, carried them round to the little trough at the back of his vehicle, gave them some shorts, sat himself down at the top of the bank, below which the batteauxman was sitting in his boat, and began to whistle—"The batteauxman robb'd the old woman's hen-roost." The batteauxman cocked up his eye at the waggoner, and the waggoner looking askance down on the batteauxman, took a chew of tobacco with a leer that was particularly irritating. The batteauxman drew out his whiskey bottle, took a drink, and put the cork in again, at the same time thrusting his tongue in his cheek in a manner not to be borne. The waggoner flapped his hands against his hips, and crowed like a cock; the batteauxman curved his neck, and neighed like a horse. Being, however, men of rather phlegmatic habits, they kept their tempers so far as not to come to blows just then. In a few minutes the waggoner swore "he had the handsomest sweetheart of any man in all Greenbriar." The batteauxman jumped up in a passion, but sat down again, and took a drink. In a few minutes the waggoner swore "he had the finest horse of any man in a hundred miles." The batteauxman bounced up, pulled the waistband of his trowsers, took another drink, and bounced down again. A minute after, the waggoner swore "he had a better rifle than any man that ever wore a blue jacket." This was too much—for the batteauxman wore a jacket of that colour, and of course this amounted to a personal insult. Besides, to attack a man's rifle! He could have borne any reflection on his sweetheart, or his horse; but to touch his rifle was to touch his honour. Off went the blue jacket; the batteauxman scrambled up the bank, and a set to commenced, that ended in the total discomfiture of the waggoner, with the loss of three of his grinders, and the gain of "divers black and bloody bruises," as honest Lithgow says. The batteauxman waited till the moon rose, when he went whistling down the stream to carry the news of his victory to old Potomac: and the poor waggoner went "to take the law," as a man says when the law is about to take him.

The honest batteauxman was arrested on his return for assault and battery on the west country waggoner. It being you know the great object of the law to find out which party is in the wrong, the lawyer of each side labours of course to throw the imputation on his adversary's client. It appeared clearly enough that the batteauxman made the first assault, but it also appeared in evidence that crowing like a cock was a direct challenge, according to the understanding of these people; that to undervalue a batteauxman's sweetheart or horse, whether he had any or not was a mortal insult; and that to insinuate any inferiority in his rifle, was an offence which no one could put up with without dishonour. That such points of honour constituted the chivalry of these people, that no class of mankind is without something of this nature—that however low a man may be, there are insults he cannot submit to, without being disgraced among his equals who constitute his world—and that to oblige him in any situation, to put up with disgrace, was to debase his nature, and to destroy every manly principle within him. Trifling as this case may appear, it called forth a display of talent, and a depth of investigation as to how far it was possible, and if possible, how far it was salutary, to attempt to repress the operation of those feelings which spur men in all situations to avoid disgrace at the risk of every thing, that gave me a high idea of the two advocates. They were both young men, new to the bar, &c. yet they spoke with a degree of fluency as well as self-possession which is seldom exhibited by our young lawyers of the cities, whose genius is too frequently rebuked by the presence of an audience they can hardly hope to please, disheartened by the supercilious airs of the elder counsel, or overpowered by the deadening sense of inferiority.

A singular, though curious and satisfactory hypothesis respecting the formation of clouds, has lately been published by an anonymous writer. He conceives them to be not merely one continued mass or body of vapor, or mixed gasses, but interspersed with bubbles or bladders, inflated with oxygen and hydrogen gasses. It is known that clouds consist almost entirely of these gasses. To illustrate his opinion, he therefore took a bladder of oxygen and hydrogen gasses combined, in the proportion of 86 parts of the former to 14 of the latter, and immersed the stop cock in soapsuds. He then inflated the bubble that hung to it, by compressing the bladder, and on passing an electric spark through it, it detonated with a loud report, and the two mixed gasses were converted into water, equal in weight to the decomposed gasses.

From this experiment, he adduces the argument, that though it frequently thunders without apparent rain, yet it is only when the thunder is at a distance: and that, invariably as a clap of thunder is heard, rain falls under the cloud, in proportion to the loudness of the report.

The New-York Gazette of the 28th ult. says:—It is with extreme mortification we have to announce, for our friend, (who never before failed in any of his projects,) his abandonment of his project of producing PERPETUAL MOTION! As was predicted by our correspondent, A Mechanic, the principle is found to be fallacious, and inconsistent with the acknowledged axioms in hydraulics.

ELISHA BROWN, & } IN CHANCERY.
HERMAN RUGGLES. }

WHEREAS the said Timothy Cone hath exhibited into this court, at the term aforesaid his bill of complaint against the said Elisha Brown and Herman Ruggles, praying to be relieved touching the matters in said bill contained—and particularly, that the said Elisha and Herman be forever barred and foreclosed from their equity of redemption (if any they have) in and to a certain tract or piece of Land, situate in township number 8, of the third range of townships in said county of Ashtabula, which the said Elisha conveyed on the third day of March A D 1815 to one Zadock West—and which the said Zadock hath since conveyed to said complainant as he saith, and it appearing that neither the said Elisha nor the said Herman are residents of this state.

Ordered on motion of Mr. Harper solicitor for complainant that notice of the pendency of this suit be given by publishing the same in the Pittsburgh Gazette or Mercury, printed in Pittsburgh and in the New-York Spectator, printed in New-York, nine consecutive weeks previous to the next term of this court, and that unless the said Elisha Brown or Herman Ruggles appear before the said court of Common Pleas to be holden at Jefferson within and for said county of Ashtabula on the third Tuesday of June next and plead, answer or demur to said bill of complaint, within sixty days thereafter, decrees pro confesso will be entered against them on the same.

Bank Robbery.

On the night of the 6th inst. the vault of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Pittsburgh, was entered by means of false keys and a large amount in notes and specie stolen therefrom, by some villain or villains unknown. A train of extraordinary circumstances has been developed which in all probability will lead to the apprehension of the villains and the recovery of the money. The persons suspected of having committed the robbery, are two gamblers of the names of Pluymart and Emmons. They are both supposed to be Yankees. Pluymart goes by the title of Doctor, and is a professed gambler. Emmons is said to have formerly kept a store in New-York.—They are both well dressed and genteel in their appearance. The Doctor is about six feet high, slender made, wore a blue frock coat and a fashionable hat. Among other circumstances which lead to the suspicion of these men are the following:—They both left Pittsburgh about a week ago, professing to go to Petersburgh or Richmond, Virginia. They, however, only proceeded to the Monongahela to Elizabeth town, where they purchased a skiff, in which they procured a false bottom to be made. They returned again to Pittsburgh, on or about the evening of the robbery, and one of them was actually seen in town.—They had employed an artist in town to make them a small iron plate, with holes drilled through in different parts, which was so ingeniously contrived, as to deceive the artist, and particularly so, as they stated it was intended for some unknown piece of machinery, but which it now appears they were enabled, with the help of small files and saws, which they had purchased in town, to convert into two keys, and thus to effect their various purpose. They are supposed to have passed down the river in the skiff with their plunder.

We have not heard precisely the amount of money taken; but understand that there is a large amount in notes of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Pittsburgh, and also some notes of the Bank of Pittsburgh.—Among other articles stolen, was a gold medal granted by the Congress of the United States to Gen. Morgan, commemorative of his gallant services at the battle of the Cowpens. Its weight was about equal to 29 guineas. Also a number of Hamburgh medals, of uncommonly pure gold, of different devices and impressions, and principally on naval subjects.

It is hoped that the citizens generally and on the western waters particularly, will be on the alert in the examination of all suspicious strangers and gamblers, and that they will cheerfully lend their aid in bringing the perpetrators of this daring robbery to justice.

P. S. Emmons occasionally goes by the name of Foote.

RISING OF CONGRESS.

The senate on the 31st ult. returned the joint resolution, sent form the representatives fixing the adjournment of congress for the 13th, amended by that house to the 20th, which was agreed to without division—so that the adjournment will positively take place on the 20th instant.

The National Intelligencer of the 1st. inst. states, that more than 1300 Creek warriors have been mustered into the service of the United States, and are actually employed in the expedition against the hostile Seminole Indians. They are commanded by the distinguished chief Colonel M'INTOSH, and are organized into 19 companies. The companies are commanded by Captains Ockfuske Yohalough, Nocko Hopoie, Hopoe Haujo, Tamyahtee, William Miller, Mad Wolf, Tuskeegie Hango, Hopaye, William Laslie, Samuel Hawkins, Tustunnuggee, Rory M'Intosh, Hagey, Othlemattee Tustunuuggee, Oosooche Tustunnuggee, Ohlatau, Wahnigee, Johussee Emathlau and Lieutenant Latimee.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 30.

The debate which has occupied the House of Representatives for the greater part of last week, was brought to a close on Saturday, and resulted in a vote of one hundred and fifteen to forty-five against the proposition of Mr. Clay to make an appropriation for sending a Minister to the United Provinces of La Plata.

The discussion was as able and quite as interesting as any we have heard in that House. It covered a wide field, which was very fully, freely and boldly traversed.

The decision, which has taken place, is, that it is not thought proper now to make an appropriation for an outfit and a year's salary for a minister to Buenos Ayres.—The reasons of that decision, in all their modifications, we will not rob our readers of the satisfaction of learning from the debate which will be placed before them. We will only say, generally, that the resolution was advocated as a measure which would enlarge the power of the Executive, and relieve the mind of the President from all doubt of the disposition of Congress to sustain him in recognizing the independence of La Plata, whenever he should deem it expedient to do so, which he would shortly do was inferred from his having sent Commissioners to that country, whose favorable report might be daily expected. The proposition was opposed, as premature and unnecessary, unless intended to be obligatory; and, if intended to be obligatory, as incompatible with the spirit of the constitution, which has reposed with the Executive the duty of conducting our intercourse with foreign powers.

This is a brief statement of the argument on the proposition, which however occupied but a small portion of the Debate; in the course of which the conduct of the government of the U. States in relation to that contest, and our relations with all the nations of Europe, with Spain particularly, as bearing on the question, were reviewed.—It was affirmed on the one hand, that the proposed measure, without benefiting either the Republic of La Plata or this nation, might involve the peace of the United States, which is its essential policy. On the other hand, it was denied that the recognition formed a ground of offence to any nation; but, it was at the same time contended, that if the measure would afford countenance to the Patriots, and benefit our commercial interests in any degree, it ought not to be avoided from the apprehension of exciting the hostility of any foreign nation. On this branch of the discussion, the Law of Nations was investigated, and the examples of History were adduced in illustration of the arguments on both sides of the question.

Interesting as the reader will conceive these views of the question to have been, we will frankly confess that there was another feature of this debate, to us not less so. It may not have escaped the attention of the reader, that no gentleman of the Federal party participated in the Debate: they stood aloof from the controversy—not, we presume, because as citizens and legislators they did not feel a deep interest in what so nearly concerned the public welfare, but because they regarded the question as one on which the Republican party was seriously divided, and on which they were willing to leave the floor free for them to combat each other. It cannot, if it ought to be, concealed, that the Republican party in the House has been in danger of a division, which, besides distracting the public councils, might have diffused itself among the people, who have little expected, and are not prepared for it. It may be inferred, therefore, that there was occasionally rather too much point in the debate. It has terminated, however, without an open rupture; and the sentiment with which Mr Forsyth concluded his remarks on Saturday, we hope, will prevail in every breast. "Where the difference between us," said he, "is so small as on the question before "us, however anxious we may feel for the "success of our particular views, I hope "that anxiety will cease when the question "is decided. Whether the motion be "adopted or rejected, let us recollect nothing but the ability and the eagerness "which has been displayed in the contest, "and feel nothing either of the bitterness "of defeat or of the joy of triumph."

We do not know whether we have succeeded in conveying to our readers an impression that the debate was an important and interesting one; but we certainly felt it to be both the one and the other.

Cincinnati
LAND AGENCY.

THE Subscribers, under the firm of JESSE EMBREE & CO. have opened in Cincinnati, (Ohio) an office for the purchase and sale of land, and of general land intelligence, in which they have taken measures to concenter, not only all the district plots of United States' lands in the Western country, with a considerable part of the field notes, which describe the quality and soil, but such other topographical information as considerable personal observation, and an extensive correspondence have placed within their reach.—They have also established agencies in the different sections of this country, and consequently will be able to answer the enquiries and execute the orders of their patrons with the greatest possible despatch.—As it is the intention of the proprietors to render this institution both permanent and useful, it is scarcely necessary to add, that no exertion shall be wanting on their part to merit the confidence and patronage of those who may wish to make use of their services in the line of their business.—They will transact on commission, or for a reasonable compensation, all kinds of negociation connected with the soil; such as purchasing of individuals or in the offices of the United States, paying taxes, &c. and will act as agents in all landed concerns. They keep a register, in which is entered for the perusal of enquirers, the description of all real property placed under their care for sale, and as they have now a great variety on hand, purchasers can have an extensive choice. Selecting and entering Congress Lands will constitute an important item in their business, and in this way they expect to be most useful to their friends at a distance. Letters addressed in the name of the firm, (post paid) to this place, will receive the most prompt attention.

Valuable
LANDS
FOR SALE.

THE subscriber offers the following very valuable Tracts of LAND for sale, situated in Beaver county, North-Sewickly township, state of Pennsylvania, in Leets' District of Depreciation lands: viz.

No. 190—216 acres or thereabouts, with allowance—On which tract is erected a good frame dwelling house, a barn, and other out-houses, with about 30 acres cleared, and an excellent spring before the house.

No. 178—130 acres—To this tract belongs one third part of a Saw-mill and has about 18 acres cleared.

No. 173—208 1-2 acres and allowance, on which is cleared about 16 acres. These three tracts lay contiguous to each other, and have between 3 & 400 acres of first rate bottom land, and particularly calculated for grazing farms, and large dairies—it is well watered by Connequenessing and Brush creeks besides small brooks and springs—with a good mill seat on Brush creek—lying in a very thriving settlement, from 3 1-2 to 6 miles from two Iron-works, and surrounded by 4 merchant mills, at the distance of 1 1-2 to 6 miles; it is about 5 miles and a half from Harmony, 9 miles from Beaver town, and 25 from Pittsburgh.—For further information, apply to Stephen Runyon, esq. near the premises or to Dr. James Agnew, in Pittsburg, as that gentleman is perfectly acquainted with the above property, or to the subscriber.

ALSO,

1150 acres of first rate upland, on Toby's or Stump creek, Armstrong county, from 2 1-2 to 6 miles from the Allegheny river: viz.

No. 450—containing 333 acres, with a good improvement on it.

No. 891—400 acres, with two good improvements on it, with about 60 acres cleared.

No 404—containing 409 acres, with two improvements, on it and a Tanyard, lying on the waters of Cherry run. These lots are of a superior quality, and have the advantage of water conveyance, and would be valuable to proprietors residing on them.—ALSO—

That beautifully situated FARM, called

Hamilton Hall,

10 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Monongahela river, containing 205 acres of land—of which there is about 140 acres of first rate river and creek bottom, with an excellent stream of water. On which is erected a new Saw-mill: it is deemed unnecessary to say any thing in praise of this property as it is well known to be one of the handsomest Farms in Allegheny county; and as it is presumed that persons wishing to purchase will take a minute survey of this property, in every respect worthy the attention of monied men. No objection would be made to take in part pay, good property in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, or Baltimore, at a reasonable valuation. For further information apply to the proprietor at Hamilton Hall Mifflin township Allegheny County, nearly opposite the mouth of Turtle Creek,

PLANTERS HOTEL,

Church street nearly opposite the Printing office of the Missouri Gazette,

(ST. LOUIS.)

THE situation of this new Establishment is convenient for travellers, in the centre of business, and, from the elevation of the ground, dry and healthy. The improvements already made are considerable. The dining room particularly, is 44 feet long, by 21.—Every exertion will be made by the proprietor, to give satisfaction to travellers or residents, who will honour his house with their custom.—At present considerable difficulty is experienced in obtaining marketing, owing perhaps to the very great and continual emigration to this country; but the proprietor flatters himself that, with the stock of provisions already on hands, he will be able to accommodate his guests amply. The house stands on a beautiful and extensive lot, which will be laid out as a Pleasure Garden, ornamented with handsome walks, and summer houses, for the recreation of gentlemen during the summer season, and furnished with Liquors Fruit, Wines, Ice-Creams, Cakes and Pastry, of every description.

A billiard-room is attached to the establishment In order that the house may be kept with regularity and good order, a printed copy of the Regulations will be put up in every room.

The prices will be moderate

On the back of the lot is a Livery Stable, which will shortly come into the possession of the proprietor of the Hotel, and will be well furnished with provender, and attended by careful and obliging hostlers.
